Description

This is my grandmas recipe My dad calls it Toucan Tuna Casserole because it uses two cans of everything It is uncommon among tuna casserole recipes because it uses potato chips instead of noodles Serve with Worcestershire sauce

Ingredients

- - 2 (13.5 ounce) bags large
- ridged potato chips (such as Ruffles®) - 2 (15 ounce) cans green beans
- drained - 2 (10.5 ounce) cans condensed cream of mushroom soup - 2 (5 ounce) cans water-packed tuna
- drained and flaked

Instructions

1. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees F (175 degrees C). Crush potato chips into a large bowl. Add green beans
2. condensed soup
3. and tuna and mix until well combined. Pack into a 10x14-inch casserole dish. Bake in the preheated oven until the top is crispy
4. about 30 minutes. Cook's Note For some reason
5. any potato chip other than Ruffles doesn't work as well. If you want to use a different size bag and don't know how much to use
6. my dad says the mixture should be "stiff with potato chips." I've tried using less and that doesn't work either
7. so don't be stingy.
